Login or Subscribe Register Connect Customer Service HOMES CARS JOBS BUSINESS HOME NFWS SPORTS ENTERTAINMENT LIFE TRAVEL OPINION FOOD TODAY'S PAPER

Blogs | California | City-by-City News | Columns | Crime and Courts | Data Central | Education | Everyday Heroes | Military | Nation | Obituaries | OC Watchdog | Photos | Politics and Government | Science | Videos | World

Female firefighters win discrimination suit

View comments - posted by TONY SAAVEDRA August 16th, 2013, 3:07 pm -

Long Beach retrofitting 24 stations with separate bathrooms.

For decades, female firefighters in Long Beach had to change in hallways and use portable toilets outside the station because the city refused to provide the women with their own facilities - until engineer Karen Rindone made a federal case out of it.

Exhibit 1: Firefighter Denise Root regularly used the bathroom at a local gas station because the one at the fire station was unavailable.

Exhibit 2: Firefighter Charise Sherratt had to wait, sometimes covered in grime or chemicals from a call, for the men to shower before she could clean up.

"I, like almost every other female firefighter in Long Beach, have been walked in on when I was naked," said Sherratt in a court declaration for a federal lawsuit. "Not only was the experience humiliating, but for several years later, men would approach me to discuss the incident."

Meanwhile, private bedrooms and bathrooms for captains were built at one station.

"The disparities in facilities ... discourage other women firefighters from applying to work as Long Beach firefighters," said Rindone's federal suit. "The city has singled out women to be a problem because of their sex, created an environment that fosters hostility and does not place men and women on equal footing.'

"It was really, really bad," attorney Kathleen Hartman said of the less-than-private conditions for her clients. "They (the city) were saying they don't have the money to make renovations when in fact they do."

Long Beach Fire Chief Mike DuRee declined to discuss the case, referring a reporter to the city attorney's office. The female firefighters who brought the case also said they could not comment directly for fear of being fired.

But things are getting better.

The city agreed July 19 to retrofit 24 stations with separate facilities for the city's nine female firefighters. This agreement settles the federal lawsuit as well as a separate state suit brought by Rindone and two other female firefighters alleging sexual discrimination. As part of the settlement, the city will pay $48,859 in attorney fees and provide the women with protective gear and uniforms fitted for females.

The female firefighters were often given gloves too big for their hands or ill-fitting coats and turnout pants - lowering the effectiveness of the fireproof clothing, the suit said.

Barry Meyers, senior deputy city attorney, said the city had already been renovating the stations - little by little - but not fast enough for the women. A new station nearing completion in North Long Beach will have separate dorm rooms, each with its own bathroom, he said.

"We don't feel we were behind the curve at all," Meyers said. "We had a long-term plan, and we were implementing that plan."

Despite repeated requests, the city would not disclose how much it is spending on the renovations, which must be ready by late 2015.

Recent Stories

- ▶ UCLA names captains for 2013 season
- Goines still out, expected back next week
- ▶ VIDEO: Jim Mora, August 21
- ▶ UCLA's Barr will be 'just fine' after head-tohead collision
- The Cover Two Podcast: Episode 8
- ▶ Barr leaves practice with concussion-like symptoms
- VIDEO: Jim Mora, day 12 of fall camp
- Backup QB Millweard leaving UCLA
- ▶ VIDEO: Jim Mora, day 11 of fall camp

Court documents filed by the city said that 23 percent of the fire stations have private facilities and dormitories.

"Since 2008, Long Beach Fire Department has made a tremendous effort to improve the living conditions for all fire personnel," city attorneys wrote.

Firefighters, male or female, are expected to work at any station on any day, at the discretion of the chief. It is not uncommon to work 72-hour shifts at different stations, the suit said.

In Orange County, the Orange County Fire Authority has long provided separate accommodations for 16 female firefighters at all of its 71 stations, said spokesman Kris Concepcion.

Hartman said the conditions in Long Beach were not as good.

"When I first met my clients, I was shocked at their account of what they had to face just to do their job. I had always just assumed that in this day and age, the women and men firefighters would all have proper gender-appropriate accommodations," she said. "Unfortunately, I was wrong."

Contact the writer: tsaavedra@ocregister.com

Related:

- · How Surf City's first female firefighter fits in
- 1st female firefighter retires

More from Blog: OC Watchdog

- ▶ Study: Nearly one-fourth of Edison power poles overloaded
- Developers, donations mingle in Lake Forest
- ▶ 13 percent of Santa Ana retirees made $100,000 pension club
- Police defense attorney accused of overbilling
- Report: Nuclear plants 'naked' to terror threat
- Can a felon run a shooting range if he doesn't touch the guns?
- ▶ End of paralysis on nuclear waste disposal?
- County may drop OCFA at airport
- ▶ After Supreme Court loss, O.C. puts map online
- Should state pension data omit names?

Posted in : fire

Reader Comments

Comments are encouraged, but you must follow our User Agreement.

- · Keep it civil and stay on topic.
- · No profanity, vulgarity, racial slurs or personal attacks.
- People who harass others or joke about tragedies will be blocked.
- By posting your comment, you agree to allow Orange County Register

Communications, Inc. the right to republish your name and comment in additional Register publications without any notification or payment.

View Article | Article Photos | Article Videos

Home News Sports	Business Entertainment L	ife Travel Opinion Real	Estate Jobs Cars Dea	lls Classifieds Place An Ad	Return to T
ADVERTISE OPTIONS	CONTACT OCREGISTER	OCR SERVICES	NEWS YOUR WAY	ADVERTISING	PARTNERS
Self Service	About Us	Archives	Blogs	Classifieds	KDOC-TV
Place an Online Ad	Careers	Buy Our Photos	E-Mail Newsletters	Cars	MSNBC
Place a Print Ad	Contact Us	California Lottery	E-Register	Deals	OC Excelsior
Place a Classified Ad	Corrections	Deals	Mobile	Jobs	Coast Magazine/OC
Media Kit	Customer Service	Register Connect	RSS	Real Estate	Register Magazine
Advertising Contact Info	Subscribe Today	Register in Education	Article Map	Place a Classified Ad	OrangeCounty.com
	Subscriber Services	Obituaries	Site Map	View our Media Kit	Freedom Printing
	Site Help	Facebook Comments FAQs	Video		OC Register Family
	Site Feedback				OC Register Metro
					Southland Golf

▶ UCLA's Guerrero has adapted to — and defended — his iob

Bad Request - Invalid URL

HTTP Error 400. The request URL is invalid

Tags fire

Latest from the USC blog

- ▶ Lee: USC quarterback derby is 'crazy'
- ► Notes, analysis from Wednesday's scrimmage
- Stats from final USC scrimmage
- ▶ Injuries mount for USC late in camp
- Davis, 17, could be USC's starting tailback

•

ADVERTISEMENT

Privacy Policy | Site Help | User Agreement | Site Map