Randy Hy is a litigation associate at our Irvine office, representing both plaintiffs and defendants in matters encompassing labor and employment law, contracts, class actions, and personal injury. He takes great pride in his zealous advocacy on behalf of all clients and particularly enjoys researching complex legal issues and law and motion practice.

Prior to joining our firm, Randy was an associate at an insurance defense firm in Palm Desert, California, where he gained experience defending businesses in civil litigation cases primarily involving personal injury, premises liability, and breach of contracts. Randy also previously worked for a general practice law firm in Fullerton, California, where he received exposure to a wide array of legal matters, including estate planning, family law, criminal defense, business disputes, and personal injury.
